VOL. CVXIIII.—82. ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA, TUESDAY, APRIL 8, 1913. PRICE, 2 CENTS

PRESIDENT WILSON VISITS THE CAPITOL

Personally Addresses Congress and Revives Customs of Other Days.

FIRST INNOVATION

Will From Time to Time Meet Senators and Representatives and Occupy His Desk in Great Building.

Washington, April 8.—Unattended save by a solitary secret service man, who occupied a seat beside the chauffeur, President Woodrow Wilson today proceeded to the capitol and revived the custom of Washington and Adams of personally addressing Congresss. It was the first of many innovations that are to come. Within a short time, possibly not until next week, the President plans to go again to the capital and there personally meet every member of both the Senate and the House. And then, from time to time, he will slip over to the great building and occupy his desk in the "President's room" of the Senate wing and get into actual contact with the lawmakers, while the wheels of legislation slowly revolve.

The President left the White House in the executive automobile immediately after the cabinet meeting and was whisked to the capitol. He went directly to Speaker Clark's room where the speaker and Vice-President Marshall were in waiting to receive him. Meanwhile the two houses were assembling for the joint session and, after they had been organized, two members of each body were to be appointed to escort the executive to the rostrum.

The President made it very plain that he wanted his visit made as simple as possible. He had planned to leave the capital immediately after the delivery of his address and rush back to his work in the eecutive offices.

Doors of the House gallery were opened at 10 o'clock, three hours before the time set for the ceremonies. At that time 300 women with private cards struggled for entrance. Old grandmothers and girls fought to be the first at the doors. Members' wives and daughters were in the melee, in which new spring gowns and millinery were mussed and shoved awry.

Outside the House entrance to the capital a large crowd, on foot and in automobiles, gathered to watch the President arrive. Thousands were there unable to secure the coveted cards of admission. These cards brought from $5 to $10 but few were for sale.

In addressing the joint session President Wilson said:

"I am very glad indeed to have this opportunity to address the two houses directly and to verify for myself the impression that President of the United States is a person, not a mere department of the government hailing congress from some isolated island of jealous power, sending messages, not speaking naturally and with his own voice,—that he is a human being trying to co-operate with other human beings in a common service. After this pleasant experience, I shall feel quite normal in all of our dealings with one another.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

To the Senate And House of Representatives:

I have called the Congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly, in order that the burden carried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible and in order, also, that the business interests of the country may not be kept too long in suspense as to what the fiscal changes are to be to which they will be required to adjust themselves. It is clear to the whole country that the tariff duties must be altered. They must be changed to meet the radical alteration in the conditions of our economic life which the country has witnessed within the last generation. While the whole face and method of our industrial and commercial life were being changed beyond recognition the tariff schedules have remained what they were before the change began, or have moved in the direction they were given when no large circumstance of our industrial development was what it is today. Our task is to square them with the actual facts. The sooner that is done the sooner we shall escape from suffering from the facts and the sooner our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement.

We have seen tariff legislation wander very far afield in our day—very far indeed from the field in which our prosperity might have had a normal growth and stimulation. No one who looks the facts squarely in the face or knows anything that lies beneath the surface of action can fail to perceive the principles upon which recent tariff legislation has been based. We long ago passed beyond the modest action of "protecting" the industries of the country and moved boldly forward to the idea that they were entitled to the direct patronage of the government. For a long time—a time so long that the men now active in public policy hardly remember the conditions that preceded it—we have sought in our tariff schedules to give each group of manufacturers or producers what they themselves though that they needed in in order to maintain a practically exclusive market as against the rest of the world. Consciously or unconsciously, we have built up a set of privileges and exemptions from competition behind which it was easy by any, even the crudest, forms of combination to organize monopoly until at last nothing is normal, nothing is obliged to stand the tests of efficiency and economy, in our world of big business, but everything thrives by concerted arrangement. Only new principles of action will save us from a final hard crystallization of monopoly and a complete loss of the influences that quicken enterprise and keep independent energy alive.

It is plain what those principles must be. We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind fo artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical, and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world. Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not, and probably can not, produce, therefore, and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of America wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

It would be unwise to move toward this end headlong, with reckless haste, or with strokes that cut at the very roots of what has grown up amongst us by long process and at our own invitation. It does not alter a thing to upse t it and break it and deprive it of a chance to change. It destroys it. We must make changes in our fiscal laws, in our fiscal system, whose object is development, a more free and wholesome development, not revolution or upset or confusion. We must build up trade, especially foreign trade. We need the outlet and the enlarged field of energy more than we ever did before. We must build up industry as well, and must adopt freedom in the place of artificial stimulation only so far as it will build, not pull down. In dealing with the tariff the method by which this may be done will be a matter of judgment, exercised item by item. To some not accustomed to the excitements and responsibilities of greater freedom our methods may in some respects and at some points seem heroic, but remedies may be heroic and yet be remedies. It is our business to make sure that they are genuine remedies. Our object is clear. If our motive is above just challenge and only an occasional error of judgment is chargeable against us, we shall be fortunate.

We are called upon to render the country a great service in more matters than one. One responsibility should be met and out methods should be thorough, as thorough as moderate and well considered, based upon the facts as they are, and not worked out as if we were beginners. We are to deal with the facts of our own day, with the facts of no other, and to make laws which square with those facts. It is best, indeed it is necessary, to begin with the tariff. I will urge nothing upon you now at the opening of your session which can obscure that first object or divert our energies from that clearly defined duty. At a later time I may take the liberty of calling your attention to reforms which should press close upon the heels of the tariff changes, if not accompany them, of which the chief is the reform of our banking and currency laws; but just now I refrain. For the present, I put these matters on one side and think only of this one thing—of the changes in our fiscal system which may best serve to open once more the free channels of prosperity to a great people whom we would serve to the utmost and throughout both rank and file.

POPE'S CONDITION AGAIN ALARMING

Pontiff's Sisters Spend Two Hours at His Bedside This Afternoon.

WEEP AS THEY LEAVE.

According to Reliabe Information Pius X is Suffering From Bright's Disease of the Kidneys.

Rome, April 8.—Pope Pius X today is very sick again, suffering from a sudden attack of Bright's disease, according to the most reliable information. A high fever accompanied the attack and Dr. Marchiafava, the chief physician of the Vatican has been in constant attendance on the pontiff since last night. None but necessary attendants is allowed to enter the sick room.

When Dr. Marchiafava was returning to the bedside of the Pope early today, he said that the pontiff's temperature last night was 100.

The Pope's two sisters spent two hours at the pontiff's bedside late this afternoon and when they left the Vatican they were crying.

For the past 20 years they have lived near their brother to minister to his wants and when the Pope became ill, a few months ago, they moved to a house one square from the Vatican and have been almost daily visitors there.

When Miss Rosa Sarto, eldest sister, of the Pope died several weeks ago her body lay in the little house near the Vatican, and Pope Pius at one time declared his intention of violating Vatican tradition and going to the death chamber, but was dissuaded. Angelo Sarto, the Pope's brother, is a rural mail carrier an dthree other sisters, Teresa, Antonia and Lucia, are married.

Mr. Abramson has been in business in Alexandria for a number of years and has a reputation for fair dealing and square treatment of his customers. The sale starts Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and bargains such as have never been offered in Alexandria will be obtainable.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Mrs. Lydia Custin, who was in a hospital at Fort Worth, Texas., told how her husband, Ralph, driven by jealousy and remorse, had burned out her eyes with carbolic acid and committed suicide by firing a bullet into his head. Custin had been ill and out of work, and could not bear to have his wife be the breadwinner of his family. In a fit of madness, he tied his wife to the bed Sunday night and poured the acid over her eyes. "There!" he cried; now you are blind. Gracie can sing on the streets and make a living for you." Gracie is a 12-year-old daughter.

Former Senator John Brooks Henderson, of Missouri, lawyer, statesman and author, is critically ill at the Washington Sanitarium, Takoma Park, and his attending physicians have little hope for his recovery.

That Senator John Sharpe Williams was among the guests at Churchill restaurant, New York, who were roughly handled by the police and finally practically thrown into the street, when the place was closed at 1 o'clock on the morning of April 1, by patrolmen and an inspector, acting under the curfew edict of Mayor Gaynor, became known today.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP DUDLEY CASTLE

Suffragettes Alleged to Have Shatered Windows of Keeper's Lodge.

CANNON PLACARDED.

Mrs. Pankhurst Expects to be Released From Prison and Placed in A Private Hospital.

Dudley, England, April 8.—Militant suffragettes attempted to blow up the ruins of ancient Dudley castle here early today. They succeeded in shattering the windows of the keeper's cottage, and also slightly damaged seme of the walls of the castle.

"Votes for women and Damn the consequences" was painted on one of the old siege cannon flanking the entrance to the grounds, and "In Honor of Mrs. Pankhurst," was painted on the other."

London, April 8.—Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst was known to be in exceedingly weakened and serious condition today, and news of her release from Holloway jail was hourly expected at the headuarters of the Woman's Social and Poiltical Union.

A room has been prepared for Mrs. Pankhurst in the same private hospital to which Miss Sylvia Pankhurst was taken when she was released from Holloway jail after her health was broken by forcible feeding.

Mrs. Pankhurst has not been forcibly fed. The home office, by order of Secretary Reginald McKenna today issued a statement positively denying that Mrs. Pankhurst had been fed by force or that forcible feeding had been attempted since her incarceration.

The prison term of Miss Zelie Emerson, the American suffragette, expires tomorrow, and unless her mother in the meantime makes other plans, she, too will be removed to the hospital where Miss Sylvia Pankhurst is ill.

Mrs. Alice Clark, a militant, just released from Holloway jail is authority for the statement that Miss Emerson, whose release is expected tomorow, has suffered a nervous breakdown and is in a dazed condition. She related how Miss Emerson replied to a magistrate visiting the prison, who spoke brutally to her.

"Keep your dirty hands off of me," Mrs. Clarke is reported as saying, and Miss Emerson retorted:

"Yours are dirtier."

The American suffragette sings "John Brown's body" all day long, Mrs. Clarke said, and frequently reminds her guards that she is an American and that they cannot coerce her.

London, April 8.—Montenegro and Servia today continued the siege of Scutari, though the predicted assault did not occur according to dispatches from Cettinje.

The international fleet has tightened the blockade of Antivari and it was semi-officially stated that the British admiral had given the Montenegrin premier warning that he would land marines if the demands of the powers were not complied with at the end of three days.

It was agreed in diplomatic circles today that a conflict between Austro-Hungary and Montenegro at present seems unavoidable but there is no likelihood that any other powers will be involved.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At a meeting held recently, attended by a large number of Alexandrians interested in poultry and stock, the agricultural poultry and Stock Asociation of Northern Virginia, was organized, and the following officers elected: C. L. Outcalt, president; Harrie White, vice president; H. B Caton, treasurer; J. W. Jones, secretary, and directors as follows: John Leadbeater, Alexander Wedderburn, R. E. Knight. The purpose of the organization is to encourage the breeding of better stock and poultry and to arrange for holding a large poultry and stock shows in this section of the State, the show to be held sometime in the fall. There are several persons in Alexandria interested in fancy poultry who are anxious to see the association prosper and begin the work of making preparations for holding the show early in the fall and who are willing to lend their aid in making it a success. Poultry shows, as a rule, are arranged a long time in advance of the day on which they are held, there being considerable work connected with the securing of entries and the arranging for premiums. FLY KILLING CAMPAIGN.

Boy Scouts to Take Charge of Movement to Commence Shortly.

Plans are being made by the Boy Scouts to inaugurate a "swat the fly campaign."

The boys will go scouting for the fly in May and a plan of campaign has been outlined for them which goes most effectively into the question of eradicating those disease bearing pests. First, the Scouts will be urged to kill the old flies that have lived through the winter time or the first brood of the spring season; second, they will go scouting for the breeding places for flies, such as stables, pigsties, garbage cans an dthe like; third, if the Scout finds a garbage can that is not being taken care of properly he will report it to the health officer.

The plan is to divide up the city into sections and appoint a troop to look after that section. As a troop has several patrols, the section will be sub-divided so that each patrol will have a separate district to cover.

Yesterday the boys visited one of our cemeteries where they straightened fences and set up tomb stones that had toppled over, removed underbrush and carried away paper and trash that had collected.

Yesterday afternoon the boys marched up King street with a banner bearin gthe inscription on one side, "Help us rid Alexandria of flies," and on the other, "Help us clean up Alexandria."

Why Salves Can't Cure Eczema

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged.

This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the well known liquid eczema remedy, oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription.

We have sold other remedies for skin troubles but none that we can recommend as highly as this for we know that D.D.D. stops the itch at once. We can give you a trial size bottle for 25 cents that will be enough to prove it.

Of course all other druggists have D.D.D. Prescription—go to them if you can't come to us—but don't accept some big profit substitute.

But if you come to our store, we are so certain of what D.D.D. will do for you that we offer you a full size bottle on this guarantee:—If you do not find that it takes away the itch AT ONCE, it costs you not a cent.

POLITICS BARRED.

President Bowers Prevents Their Injection in Conference.

Lynchburg, Va., April 8.—It was only through the strictest adherence to parliamentary rules and enabled President Bowers to prevent the injection of politics into a lively discussion yesterday afternoon in the Methodist Protestant Conference. The committee on moral reforms submitted its report which contained a clause endorsing the Anti-Saloon League, and the methods of Mr. Anderson to bring about the desired local option measure and urging the ministers and laymen of the church to use their power at the polls and to support the senatorial and legislative candidates who make clear their intention to stand by this measure. Before this report could be acvted upon, Rev. C. L. Elderdice offered a substitute which read as follows:

"We urge the Anti-Saloon League to at once start a fight for a prohi- amendment to the State Con- and to concentrate its ef- to this end, believing that statewide prohibition is infinitely more preferable to local option and equally as obtainable."

Things were set in motion for a spirited discussion on the question as to which was the more desirable and easier obtained—to wait two years for the local option question to be brought up, or to launch the statewide prohibition movement at once. The discussion was getting very warm when President Bowers called a halt, and said that while he had no disposition to suppress the eloquence, he must insist upon ruling that politics and too spirited debates be eliminated from the session. "These subjects," he said, "invariably precipitate the members in hot discussions, and while I am in sympathy with them myself, they must not break out in the conference room."

Rev. F. T.Tagg, editor of the Methodist Protestant, vigorously opposed the substitute, and begged his brethren to let the Anti-Saloon League and Mr. Anderson go ahead with their plans, which, he believed,were the most available and would prove the most effective for the present needs. "All the other conferences have unanimously endorsed the method of the league," said Dr. Tagg. "Let us not go astray but get behind the other forces so that we may present a solid phalanx for the destruction of this monster."

After several speeches adverse to the substitute, it was defeated and the original paper adopted.

The question of a meeting place for next year was brought up early in the morning session when Rev. L. A. Bennett, pastor of the Milford (Dela). charge, said he would like to know if the conference would accept the invitation he had extended. As there was no other invitation on the table, the Milford invitation was voted on, and was accepted by a unanimous standing vote. Mr. Bennett said that they had just completed a handsome new church at a cost of $26,000. As the recent [illegible] than 1,000 souls [illegible] been converted, and the church has a membership of over 500, all this success coming to them within the past two years and bringing the charge up from an obscure one to one of the most influential in the Conference. The conference will meet on the first Wednesday in April 1914.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S NEW DEPARTURE.

According to his announcement, President Wilson read a short message to the House of Representatives early this afternoon, thus resurrecting a custom which had been consigned to oblivion since the days of John Adams. George Washington had previously set the example.

The procedure of the President is the subject of considerable comment. Mr. Wilson's friends can see no serious principle involved, while others, also friends of the executive, say such an example savors of royalty and is suggestive of "reading a speech from the throne."

In one of the histories of the late Southern Confederacy the writer says the constitution which was adopted was substantially that of the federal government, which time had shown to be imperfect, in some details; hence the southern representatives, profiting by experience, introduced what were improvements. Among the latter was a clause empowering cabinet ministers to appear upon the floor of the lower house and make their suggestions known.

Mr. Wilson may be impressed with the action of the representatives of the "Lost Cause," and he has taken the iniative and the time may come when scenes akin to those in the British House of Commons will be enacted in this country, when the President and members of his cabinet will be interrogated upon the floor of Congress.

Most friends of Mr. Wilson will prefer to withhold judgment upon his new departure. The people may frown upon the introduction of royal customs in the United States.

WOMEN'S PARADE IN WASHINGTON YESTERDAY.

Representative women who appeared on Pennsylvania avenue in Washington and marched to the Capitol yesterday had the protection of the police, as they should have had on the 3rd ultimo, when rowdies, insolent men and children were allowed to annoy them at pleasure. The disgraceful scenes of that occasion have become blots which no explanations, so far, have been able to obliterate. These are the frank expressions of all well-meaning people, some of whom, however, question the expediency of woman suffrage, while equally as many more believe the demands of the suffragettes reasonable and legitimate.

Women who were in the ranks on the 3rd of March and yesterday were not attired in masculine garments, nor were they viragos or enthusiasts in the shape of Mrs. Pardiggle or Mrs. Jellyby. They were representatives of hearths and homes throughout the country who merely desire to place their appeal before the lawmakers of the country. Should their petition be denied, there need be no fear of the defacement of property nor attacks upon cabient ministers. Railway stations will remain intact, passenger trains will move in safety, and no fires will be kindled in summer homes of Presidents or their governmental family.

The movements of the women have been peaceable throughout, and no vitriolic utterances have emanated from them.

While the opinion of the world is divided concerning their demands, the fact remains that they have been guilty of no overt acts in our country, and it is a satisfaction to both their political friends and foes to know that they received yesterday the respect to which they were legally and morally entitled

While the office of the vestal virgin is sacred and most generally followed by the daughters of Eve, as it is their inborn instinct to exercise vigilance over the family hearth, it is cruel to suppose that she is to spend her entire mission gazing from windows at pageants. There are times when she, too, like the lassies of Sparta of old, longs to enter the stadium. Why persecute her with ridicule on such occasions? Would Lycurgus have smiled to see such ill-treated when they engaged in foot races? Surely not.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST "INDIGNITIES."

Women Would Expunge Bible and Marriage Service.

A campaign against 'indignities" to women contained in the Angelican marriage service is the latest effort of the Suffragists' Spiritual Militancy League.

Fifteen such moral humiliations are mentioned in the manifesto which the league is sending not only to every clergyman of the church of England, but to all persons whose forthcoming marriage is announced in the daily papers. The first two indignities alleged is the words "obey and serve him," which the bride is required to repeat and question put by the minister: "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" One of the remedies suggested for both is the omission of the words; the alternative is that the bridegroom be required to promise to "obey and serve her," and that the minister also ask: "Who giveth this man to be married to this woman?"

Three indignities surround the marriage ring and the bridegroom's accompanying declaration. "The words: "With all my worldly goods I thee endow,' have never been true," says the manifesto. The government is urged to drop the ring ceremony and its formula or to enforce an exchange of rings and the use of a formula containing "no economic falsehood or moral offense."

Humiliation No. 7 is the minister's pronouncement that they shall be man and wife together. The implication complained of is that "the woman is wholly a wife, and the man not wholly a husband."

Protesting that the first of the Psalms addresses itself wholly to the bridegroom, the league demands its omission or that it is supplemented by another addressed to the wife.

The petition that the man shall love his wife as Christ the Church is "an appalling humiliation of woman and a pernicious exaltation of man."

The thirteenth indignity is quoting St. Paul's words: "Wives, submit yourselves unto your husband as unto the Lord; for the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church." The league strenuously opposes the idea of the husband being the head of the wife, and suggests: 'Husbands, also submit yourselves unto your wives" as a supplement to this second exhortation to the wife.

Launch Ready.

After having had her hull built at Washington by the Dawson Boatebuilding Company and having had a house put on her and an engine installed at Alexandria, the new cruising launch belonging to Cecil K. Sherman, is about completed and ready for her trials. The launch has been named the Mingo, and it is thought she will be found to be one of the fastest boats of her class on the river. She has a roomy cabin, with sleeping accommodations for about six persons, and is to be fitted out in the most comfortable style, with all equipments usually found aboard a pleasure craft for the safety of those who will travel on her.

The Mingo will be used by Captain Sherman for cruising on the river, and should he desire to make a summer trip along the coast the new craft is amply large for that service.

The Mingo has been enrolled in the Alexandria Motor Boat Club, a growing organization, which will shortly build a fine boathouse on the river front of this city.

THE PATH TO POOR HOUSE LANE.

The path to Poor House Lane is crowded with the passing years,
It knows the tread of weary feet,
it know the falling tears,
It understands the hopes forgotten
in life's tragedies,
It knows the tale of broken-hearts and sodden miseries.

The path is broad and all may follow
if they want to go,
It's traveled in the summer's sun and in the winter's snow,
It is the highway that the spendthrift wants at last to tread,
When the wanderlust has left him and he seeks a beggar's bed.

It is the path that makes appeal to all whose lives were spent In prodigal extravagance which now they all repent.
It is the traveled highway of old age, when grief and pain
And wretched waste has brought them on the way to Poor House Lane.

Movement For Union.

A large number of delegates who come from the churches of all Christian denominations in Washington will meet in the New Willard the first week of May to discuss the organization of a world-wide inter-denominational Christian Church. The late J. Pierpont Morgan recently gave $100,000 toward this work.

This convention will be made up of representatives from the Catholic, Protestant, and Greek churches and it is the aim of the gathering to settle on some form of Christian church that will embody all three of these faiths. The general outline will be made in this meeting, and at some later date it is planned to call a meeting of delegates from all over the world to discuss the matter and arrange at a definite settlement.

The Disciples of Christ have named a commission that for some time has been working on the problem, and recently has conferred with the Christian Unity Foundation in New York, on some of the details. Resolutions endorsing a proposed form of agreement between these two churches, whereby both might be amalgamated and come under one government, might be adopted.

The work of the commission which met in New York was made known yesterday by Rev. Arthur Lowndes, secretary of the Christain Unity Foundation, and it is probable that every Protestant Episcopal minister, and the clergymen of the Disciples of Christ will take the matter up with their own church people and further the work of the commission.

Of course, the conference was unofficial and informal, and those who voted on question did so as individuals, but the effect will be lasting and will have a tendency to bring these two bodies together. When this dream becomes a reality efforts will be made to have other religious organizations within the fold and by this continued amalgamation in time absorb every Christian denomination in the world.

VIRGINIA DRUG CLUB.

The Virginia Drug Club, composed of a majority of the wholesale druggists in the state of Virginia, met today in the parlors of the Rammel Hotel in this city. The club meets alternately at Richmond and Alexandria, the meetings being more in the nature of social than business gatherings. A luncheon was served at 1:30, after which the meeting was called to order by E. D. Taylor, of Richmond, chairman of the club.

MANY APPLICATIONS.

F. Beattie, deputy collector of internal revenue for this district, is receiving many applications for the position of guager at the Portner Brewery, announcement of which appeared in the Gazette several days ago. This position, says Mr. Beattie, was created because of the change in the methods of bottling beer and the abandonment of the old method of bottling, which was taken from barrels stamped by the government. Under the new method the beer is bottled direct from large storage vats, which necessitates the presence at the brewery of a United States guager whenever the vats are emptied or filled. The requirements o fthis position demand tha tthe applicant be a deputy collector of internal revenue, and to obtain this position it would be necessary for applicants to pass a civil service examination, as no appointments are made. The nominal salary paid the guager would preclude anyone not already a collector from making application for the place.

Border City Now Has Surplus of About $75,000 to Credit.

Bristol, Va., April 8.—Following a mass-meeting of Bristol temperance people in State-street Methodist Church Friday night, when plans were perfected for a campaign against the whisky traffic, the fight between the "drys" and the "wets" is on in earnest.

The church and temperance people have determined to make an aggressive fight to put saloons out of business on the Virginia side of Bristol, thus to make the entire city "dry" territory. More than a dozen liquor houses have flourished here four years, doing a large shipping business to the surrounding territory and to "dry" territory in other states.

The municipality of Bristol, Va., has squared its debt and waxed rich as a result of the revenue, and now has a surplus in bank of about $75,000. The benefits derived fro ma revenue standpoint is the one hard proposition the "drys" will have to overcome.

Many persons temperate in their habits take the view that as long as the whisky traffic is permitted in other places, the benefits from [illegible] revenue may as well be enj[illegible] tol; and from the [illegible] feeling [illegible], by speci[illegible] Maternity Hos[illegible] perance people are enthusiastic, and will fight hard to the end.

The petition for an election was presented to Judge Kely, of the corporation court Saturday, and the election will take place early in May.
